READING, July 18. — Reading grocers may build a bakery of their own to compete against bakers who recently raised the price of bread. This was considered at a largedy attended meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association today.

The grocers organized the Merchants' Ice Company several years ago. Virtually the

The grocers organized the Merchants' Ice Company several years ago. Virtually the same men are back of the preposition to establish a big bakery.

According to the grocers, the bakeries are asking excessive prices, as the cost of flour has dropped considerably in the last few weeks. It was stated at the meeting that when the bakers raised the price the cost of flour was up to $17 and $18 a barrel, and threatened to go as high as $20. Bakery owners then discontinued making five-cent loaves and increased prices to ten and fifteen cents and last week they five-cent loaves and increased prices to ten and fifteen cents and last week they discontinued taking back unsold broad.
